

ABSTRACT

METHOD OF DETERMINING INVENTORY LEVELS

Optimum inventory levels are determined for parts in a network of neighboring part facilities serving a plurality of customers. A part procurement time performance measure is met or exceeded while minimizing overall inventory cost including holding, handling, and transportation costs. Alternatively an upper bound on inventory cost is met while maximizing a part procurement time measure.